RAINY DAY DRESSES.

OLIVE HARPER URGES HER SISTERS TO HAVE THEM.

They Should Be of Warm Color, and the Men Folks Will Rise Up and Call You Blessed if You Take the Advice Here Offered.

[Special Correspondence.] New York, Oct. 30.—A dress for rainy days should have a place in every lady's wardrobe where it is possible. Not some old gown that is to be worn on the dull, dark day because nobody is likely to drop in, but a dress specially designed for the purpose, and only put on to brighten up the surrounding gloom.

A RAINY DAY DRESS.

For a rainy day dress the material should be of red, garnet, pink or yellow, whichever of these colors is most becoming, and it should be as pretty and dainty as a child's little hands can make it. Put it on in the morning and wear it down to breakfast, oh! my sisters, and it will make you seem like a sunbeam through a dense cloud, and you will brighten up for those you love. Your big burly husband will feel happier and better satisfied with the world than he did a few minutes before, and wonder what made the change. Your brothers will feel gay, and your sons and daughters will share in the general brightness. But as children's perceptions are keener they will probably understand that you, in your unadorned brilliancy of coloring, make a glad, warm spot in the dreary day.

It need not be a very expensive gown. I give a picture of a cashmere dress that may be wrapped or tea gown at will. It is of blood red cashmere, with a front of gold colored sash, and across the front and at the waist and throat are narrow rows of black velvet ribbon which end in full rosettes.

This is plain but very effective, and would be a cheerful point of bright color in a dull winter or rainy morning. The edges of the gown could be prettily embroidered or trimmed with a cascade of lace with lavish bows of ribbon and floating ends.

Some like blue or light green, brown or other color, but they would not be so satisfactory as a brilliant bit of warm color as the more pronounced colors mentioned above. Old material in the proper colors can be made over effectively in this way, or if the wrapper form is not considered desirable a very pretty design is given in the other illustration. The material is fine hair line cheviot, red and blue, and trimmed by a band of broad ribbon in the richest cashmere colors. The ribbon is laid on flat from neck to foot, with a bow at the waist. The cuffs and collar are of the same. The colors are all very bright, and, with a pleasant smile, would make even a London fog seem burning sunshine.

The graceful princess shape is peculiarly well adapted for elegant house dresses, and they are becoming to all ages and styles of figure, and they will take any kind of trimming. The present rage is for Spanish points and Spanish styles of garniture, as it is of dancing, and even the coquettish little side curls are worn by all the dark haired girls.

A very pretty new walking suit that has just been imported is worthy of imitation. It is of striped cheviot in cream, gray and blue, and is trimmed all around the bottom with a band of velvet in the same shade as the blue of the stripe. The sleeves have full caps of the same, and a very novel Peter collar of the velvet is laid around the neck. Around the waist is a velvet ribbon sash with loops and ends. A cockle shell shaped hat in gray felt with velvet ribbon and velvet flowers finish the whole handsome costume.

It is utterly impossible to tell one-half the glories and beauties in new bonnets and hats, for there are as many styles and species as there are flowers in the field. I noticed one peculiar one of apple green felt, bent up and then turned down to a queer shaped point in front. On the very end of the peak in front was a surprising bow of green velvet ribbon, and in the back was another in the midst of which nestled a little black bird with fiery red eyes.

On the whole, the bonnets this year are not as handsome as they were last in form nor in the massing of the trimming.

Interesting Facts About That Mysterious Servant of Mankind, Electricity.

The term electricity is derived from the Greek word electron, meaning "amber," because from amber the properties of what we call "electricity" were first discovered. Six hundred years before the Christian era Thales wrote concerning the attraction which amber when rubbed possessed for

LODGE ROOM GOSSIP.
THE NEWS OF THE DAY AMONG THE FRATERNAL SOCIETIES.
Theodore L. Chappelle, Who Was Recently Elected Grand Master of Odd Fellows of the Lower Provinces of British North America—Items from Other Orders.

The following sketch and portrait were originally published in The Dominion Odd Fellow:
Theodore L. Chappelle, who, at the recent session of the grand lodge, held at St. John, N. B., was elected by acclamation its grand master, was born at Charlottetown, P. E. I., on July 30, 1819. He was initiated into St. Lawrence lodge, No. 4, located at Charlottetown, on June 19, 1871, and passed the N. G.'s chair in 1873, and became a member of the grand lodge in 1874, whose sessions, with only one exception, he has attended to the present. Having served as grand herald, conductor, guardian, marshal, warden and deputy grand master, he has now the pleasure of occupying the highest office in the gift of the order outside of the sovereign grand lodge.

During Bro. Chappelle's membership he has seen many changes. "Old things have passed away," and the new order has gained vim and enthusiasm heretofore unknown. He has indeed been classed as a "working Odd Fellow," for it is admitted that to his energy and devotedness, together with the valuable assistance rendered in recent years by Grand Representative Benjamin Bremner, the order holds such an exalted position in that section of the jurisdiction.

Bro. Chappelle will, during his tenure of office, perform the duties of the station faithfully, and show at the end of the year that the order has not suffered during his incumbency. Bro. Chappelle has been continuously R. scribe of Port La Joie camp, No. 13, since its formation in 1871, with the exception of one year, in which he filled the chief patriarch's chair.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR.
How the Order is Growing in New York State—Minnesota's Room.
The reports read at the recent session of the grand lodge of New York showed the total amount of money received by the grand treasurer during the two years, $20,082.42; amount expended, $17,782.87; amount in grand treasury Aug. 31, 1889, $7,170.17. The total increase in membership was 3,332; decrease by death, suspension and otherwise, 2,563; net increase, 769. Number of English lodges, 133, with a membership of 11,105; German lodges, 36, with 9,188 members. Total number of lodges, 169; total membership, 10,384.

The following table shows the death rate in New York City, Brooklyn and balance of state during the years 1888 and 1889, computed on the membership June 30 of each year:

	1888.	1889.
New York city.....	7,993	10
Brooklyn.....	3,359	14
Balance of state.....	4,332	27
Total.....	15,684	31

There is a luxury, positive and grateful, in clothing the feet each morning with shoes and stockings that are clean, dry and perfectly fitted, and the faithful members respond with an exhilarating vigor which is pleasing to be remembered to special and rare occasions.

Measuring the Flow of Tides.
A young scientist connected with the United States steamer Fish Hawk, which is used in experimenting on the Sound, has invented an instrument for measuring the flow of the tide. It is made of sheet copper in the shape somewhat of a fish, and is about four feet long. It is, when in use, suspended from the end of a 30-foot spar rigged to the side of the steamer, and extending at right angles with her, to make the action of the machine entirely independent of currents that might be caused by the steamer. The head of this mechanical fish consists of a delicately made revolving screw or wheel, not unlike in construction and shape the propelling screw of the steamer.

When the fish is lowered into the water it turns its head toward the current and is held in that position by the tail, which serves the purpose of a rudder. Within the body of the fish is placed delicate machinery which registers the revolutions made by the revolving screw, and the rapidity of the revolutions is transmitted, to the laboratory on the steamer, by an ingeniously constructed electrical apparatus thus recording the rapidity of the current—New York Telegram.

One of the points especially noted by military observers during the recent maneuvers abroad, where smokeless powder was used, was that in a clear atmosphere, unobscured by the smoke of battle, all bright accoutrements were seen at a great distance, thus betraying the positions of the various bodies of troops.

In photographing projectiles in motion no results of any importance obtained till the velocity of the shot exceeds that of sound. But at higher speeds a wave of compression is found preceding the bullet in its flight. Behind the projectile there is a conical wave formed, the angle of which is less the greater the velocity.

MORSELS OF GASTRONOMY.
Epicureans seldom care for sweets at a dinner. Roast pork takes nearly six hours to digest. Gas is coming more and more into favor as a cooking fuel. Papilionates are ground pieces of paper fastened over fish and cutlets. Olives share the honor with oysters as an ornamental dish.

Children always Enjoy It.
SCOTT'S EMULSION
of pure Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphates of Lime and Soda is almost as pleasant as a candy.
Children enjoy it rather than otherwise. A MARVELOUS FLESH PRODUCER. It is indeed, and the little kids who take it, grow so fat and healthy, may be fortified against a cough that might prove serious, by taking Scott's Emulsion after their meals during the fall and winter months.
